GAEDE ROETTER

VOL. 3. NO.1

DECEMBER 1986

ADDITIONAL CHILDREN OF HARM IDENTIFIED

During the past year, I have continued to study the church records of the area of West Prussia where our forefathers lived in the Kulmerland valley of the Vistula River. In fact, I have completed the reading of all of the Mennonite, Catholic and Evangelical records of the era and area available through the Mormon Church Library, and some, several times over. Unfortunately, I have not been able to further identify our most eldest known relative, HARM, beyond the fact that he was born in 1737 and died in 1801 in Klein Lunau, was a weaver and had as many as seven children, that's right, seven children. Besides our direct descendant JOHANN and his four previously named siblings - HERMAN, ANA, GERHART and PETER, I have located yet two more by the names of SARA and JACOB. It is also appargnt that our JOHANN was either the last or second to last born, either before or after his sister SARA. And an interpretation of the data indicates that HARM married comparatively late in life in his early thirties, sired his children over a sixteen year period and was forty-nine when Johann arrived. HARM's son JACOB lived but eighteen years from 1782-1800. The information on SARA, on the other hand, is much greater and somewhat intriguing. Although no date of her birth is available, the records indicate she was married to a Wilhelm Schroeder in 1810 in the village of Podwitz, not far from Klein Lunau. She had three children - HELENA in 1818, PETER in 1819 and JOHANN in 1822, however they all died in infancy. In 1822 she and her husband left Klein Lunau for Russia. You may recall that this is the same year JOHANN and his family journeyed to Russia. They likely traveled together since there were only three families who emigrated from Klein Lunau to Russia in that year. Whether the SCHROEDER'S had any surviving children after arriving in the new lands is not known. We may have some SCHROEDER cousins. If any of you have such information, please let me know.

THE "LOST GAEDES" REVISTED

In respect to the previously identified "Lost Gaedes", the children of the widow MARIA GAEDE who married HEINRICH POETKER subsequent to the death of her first husband PETER (a son of HARM), I have discovered some clarifying data. We now know MARIA'S husband PETER GAEDE died in Klein Lunau in 1818. His birthdate was obscured in the record, however, the date of his marriage to MARIA KLIEWER in Venedia, located immediately adjacent to Klein Lunau, in 1807 is quite legible. We knew previously that she had two children by her first husband, PETER and MARIA, but only son PETER'S birthdate of 1810 was then known. Now daughter MARIA'S birthdate of 1812 is also known. As many of you may recall from my previous reports, HENRICH POETKER and the widow MARIA GAEDE with two GAEDE step children, PETER and MARIA, journeyed to Russia in 1823. This was, of course, the year after JOHANN and his sister SARA with their respective families went to Russia. Additional information on this POETKER/GAEDE family reveals that in her new marriage to HEINRICH POETKER she had two children before they left West Prussia in 1823, HEINRICH POETKER in nearby Jamerau in 1819 and HELENA POETKER in 1821. HEINRICH POETKER and MARIA GAEDE were probably married then soon after PETER'S death in 1818, not an unusual occurrence in those days.

ADDITIONAL INFORMATION ABOUT JOHANN

Additional knowledge about JOHANN, our direct HARM descendent and father of HEINRICH, has also been discovered. We have known that his wife's name was CATHARINA NICKEL, but now it is known that they were married in the nearby village of Oberasmas in 1810. Further, and a great surprise, the records reveal that they had a son by the name of, you guessed it, JOHANN in 1811 who lived only until 1813, two years before HEINRICH'S birth in 1815. I have been looking for such a child of JOHANN'S for sometime because the common sequence of naming children during this time, as it is often for us today, called for the first born male child to be named after the father. The heretofore fact that JOHANN'S eldest son was named HEINRICH did not add-up in the orderly eighteenth century Mennonite life. Now, not only does the naming pattern fit for JOHANN, but the second born male child's name of HEINRICH further confirms the proper relationship to HARM, since the second born male child normally bore the name of his grandfather. Both JOHANN and his elder brother GERHARD named their second sons' HEINRICH. Although the name HEINRICH is not the same as HARM, it will be remembered in a previous report in which I discussed the change from old North German first names to more contemporary Mennonite names during this era. Thus HARM named his first born HERMAN, while JOHANN named his second son HEINRICH. The similarity of the three names does not lie in their common meaning, but rather in the likeness of their spelling and pronunciation, with the beginning letter H the most significant.

WHO WAS HARM'S FATHER?

As for the probable name of HARM'S father is concerned, there is conflicting evidence. First, if GERHARD was the second son of HARM, as we have thought, then HARM'S father was most likely called GERHARD/GERT; however, if by chance his second son was instead PETER, of whom we have no birthdate, then his father's name may well have been PETER. It will be remembered that we have family information that HARM had three unnamed children by 1776, two sons and one daughter. When I came across the death date of GERHARD in the records as having been 62 in 1839, I subtracted his age from 1839 and came up with a birth year of 1776, which seemed to fit in the scenario very well. But the year of his birth could have just as well have been in calendar 1777, and it was therefore PETER who was the second son mentioned in the family data. The only corroborative information in support of the name PETER for HARM'S father lies with the naming of JOHANN'S sons, since he was the only known son of HARM to have more than two sons. The first was expectantly named after himself, the second, HEINRICH, after his father HARM and the third, quite interestingly, was named PETER, which may have been the name of JOHANN'S grandfather and the father of HARM. The records reveal both a PETER and a GERHARD who lived in the vicinity of Klein Lunau who, by their age, are of the generation preceding that of HARM, but there is no linking information as of yet. The final answer will simply have to await further study.

WHERE DO WE GO FROM HERE?

As I said before, all of the available records have been harvested of their GAEDE material, so where do we go from here? There is still one variant of our name which I continue to pursue in the data for its possible worth, the GODERT connection. GODERT and its various changes means "Goodheart" in old low German, as opposed to just plain "Good" for our name. The evidence of the intermixing of the two names in records is controversial - and one important historian I have communicated with believes they are two distinct families. However, I have found one instance, so far, where the same person was identified with both names, so I shall continue to pursue the question in the records available to me. Secondly, I have received some information from the Polish Archives Office in Warsaw, and I am in the process of seeking more, but they are difficult to deal with and not very forth-coming. Also, I have developed a friendship with a Polish citizen who believes he can establish informal contacts with members of the archive bureau and perhaps discover some information. There are persistent rumors that significant Mennonite records are stored in Polish archives, especially in the city of Torun (Thorn). I have also arranged for a short VCR film of the Kulmerland, which I hope to have available at our next reunion.
